

“Right from the assessment day, the Isosceles team were welcoming and have been very supportive!

It's nearly a year since I began at Isosceles, and I wanted to share my experience of changing careers and training to be an accountant at Isosceles.

Before joining Isosceles, I was a mathematics teacher and had no previous experience in accounting. Changing careers was a daunting prospect at first, but right from the assessment day, the Isosceles team were welcoming and have been very supportive in helping me develop the new skills needed to be a successful accountant.

I currently work on five clients, which vary in size. This has given me exposure to different systems, different accounting software and experience working with people from all over the world. I currently deal with the day to day transactions, and as I build on my knowledge through taking the CIMA exams, I am taking on more month end tasks. The communication skills I gained being a teacher have been useful at Isosceles as you communicate with clients, their customers and suppliers, daily. Working on various clients allows you to progress in many different areas. It is hard work as you will be learning new things almost every day, but you will be given work that is tailored to your progress, and you will always have the support of the team to help you.

I am studying for the CIMA qualification, and although I have a math's degree, I had no exemptions from the exams before starting. I study through a distance learning course, so I watch the lectures online in my own time, it is very flexible, but fitting studying around a full-time job requires good time management. I have just completed the Certificate level of the qualification, which has given me a good knowledge base, which I apply to my client work and a great foundation for my progression.

Good luck in your application and I look forward to working with you in the future!
